

Список университетов Соединённого Королевства по дате основания

Это список университетов Соединенного Королевства по дате их основания.

Во многих случаях предполагаемая дата основания университета является предметом споров, особенно в случае старинных университетов. В современных университетах ведутся аналогичные дебаты, причем некоторые университеты имеют наследие как образовательные учреждения, которое предшествует их нынешнему основанию или признанию в качестве университета более чем на сто лет, например, использование "Est 1824" на логотипе Манчестерского университета, отражающего первоначальные основы Манчестерского механического института и Манчестерской королевской медицинской школы в том же году, несмотря на то, что нынешний фонд был основан (путем слияния двух существующих университетов) в 2004 году.^{[1][2]} Для современных (после 1800 года) университетов дата основания присваивается статус университета (согласно королевской хартии, акту парламента, распоряжению совета или решению Палаты компаний). Названия бывших университетов, преемниками которых являются существующие в Великобритании учебные заведения, выделены курсивом.

Древние университеты

До XIX века в Англии было всего два успешных долгосрочных университетских проекта, а в Шотландии — пять (в том числе два в Абердине, см. ниже). Это исключает другие попытки основать средневековые студии в Нортгемптоне, который получил миграцию ученых из Оксфорда в 1238 году, Кембриджа в 1260 году (поощряемый королевской хартией в 1261 году) и снова Оксфорда в 1263 году, но затем был закрыт королевским указом в 1265 году, Солсбери, который аналогичным образом получил миграцию из Оксфорда в 1238 году и все еще существовал в 1278 году, но исчез к 1300 году, и в Стэмфорде с 1333 по 1335 год,^[3] ни один из которых так и не получил признания в качестве университета,^[4] и Новый колледж Кромвеля в Дареме, который существовал с 1653-1660 годов, но не получил полномочий присуждать ученые степени после противодействия Оксфорда и Кембриджа и был закрыт при восстановлении монархии.^[3]

Университеты девятнадцатого века

После 1600 года в Англии или Шотландии до девятнадцатого века не было успешно основано ни одного нового университета, хотя в восемнадцатом веке был основан ряд академий инакомыслия, медицинских школ, таких как университет Святого Георгия (1733) и медицинский колледж Лондонской больницы (1785), а также Королевский ветеринарный колледж (1791).

University of Wales	1893 ^[29]	Goreu Awen Gwirionedd (The best inspiration is truth)	See below

The University of Wales and the Victoria University were founded as federal universities incorporating earlier colleges and the University of London was founded as an examination board (becoming a federal university in 1900). The federal universities are discussed further below.

The Andersonian Institute, a precursor of the University of Strathclyde, was established in 1796 and used the title Anderson's University between 1828 and 1887, but the University of Strathclyde did not receive a royal charter granting university status until 1964.^[30] Similarly, University College London used the title London University without being granted university status from 1826 to 1836.^[31] Both St Patrick's College, Maynooth (from 1896) and the Catholic University of Ireland (1854–1911) were universities by Papal Bull but were never recognised as such by the British state.^{[32] [33]}

Общественные университеты

Эти университеты отличались тем, что не были коллегиальными (и, следовательно, в то время не имели общежитий) и были основаны как университетские колледжи, которые принимали мужчин вне зависимости от их вероисповедания и уделяли особое внимание передаче студентам «практических» навыков, часто связанных с инженерным делом. Все они были учреждены как университеты на основании королевской хартии и соответствующего парламентского акта о передаче собственности и активов университетского колледжа вновь образованному университету. Поскольку в этой статье университеты перечислены по датам основания, в этом разделе указаны только те университеты, которые получили свой статус в период с 1900 по 1959 год. Есть несколько учебных заведений, которые обычно считаются гражданскими университетами и имеют много общего в истории с этими университетами, но получили свой статус позже (например, Ньюкаслский университет в 1963 году или Кардиффский университет в 2005 году). Они перечислены в соответствующем временном периоде.

Первая волна гражданских университетов

Все крупные гражданские университеты, построенные из «красного кирпича», получили официальный статус университетов до Первой мировой войны. Этот термин впервые употребил профессор Ливерпульского университета для описания этих университетов, вдохновившись зданием Виктории университета, построенным из характерного красного прессованного кирпича.^[34] Все учебные заведения из красного кирпича в Великобритании ведут свою историю от более старых медицинских и инженерных колледжей, которые готовили студентов к внешним экзаменам Лондонского университета. Многие из них также какое-то время входили в состав федерального Университета Виктории.

Бирмингемский университет	1900 ^[35]	Per ardua ad alta (Через тернии к звездам)	Первый гражданский университет, получивший статус полноценного университета, и первый унитарный (не коллегиальный и не федеральный) университет в Англии. Second wave of civic universities

The second wave of civic universities differed from the later "plate glass universities" in that they all evolved from local university colleges founded before the Second World War and all prepared students for external University of London examinations before being granted full university status. They are distinguished from the "red brick" universities only by their date of foundation as universities, and are often classed together.

Университеты 1960-х годов

В 1960-е годы количество университетов в Великобритании увеличилось более чем в два раза — с 22 до 45. Университеты, основанные в 1960-е годы, делятся на две основные группы: университеты с «пластиковым» фасадом, названные так из-за преобладающего архитектурного стиля, и бывшие колледжи передовых технологий, которые были преобразованы в университеты после выхода доклада Роббинса.^[47]

«Стеклянные» университеты отличаются от гражданских тем, что они не были университетскими колледжами, направлявшими студентов на внешние экзамены, а были созданы с нуля как университеты с правом присуждать ученые степени (под надзором советов по академическому надзору). Решение о создании «стеклянных» университетов было принято до выхода доклада Роббинса, и в докладе они упоминаются как находящиеся в процессе создания (глава IV).^[48] Подход к созданию учебных заведений, имеющих право присуждать ученые степени, был впервые опробован в Университете Кила, который был основан в 1949 году как Университетский колледж Северного Стаффордшира с правом присуждать собственные ученые степени под надзором Оксфорда, Манчестера и Бирмингема.^[49]

Статус колледжа передовых технологий (College of Advanced Technology, CAT) был введен в 1950-х годах, хотя многие из таких институтов существовали гораздо дольше. Колледжи передовых технологий отличались от университетских колледжей (хотя, как и они, готовили студентов к получению дипломов Лондонского университета) и, наряду со своими шотландскими аналогами, были рекомендованы к преобразованию в университеты в докладе Роббинса (глава X).^[48] Все они вошли в состав университетского сектора в 1960-х годах, хотя некоторые из них стали колледжами федеральных университетов, а не самостоятельными университетами.

Кроме того, в этот период некоторые гражданские университеты (Данди, Ньюкасл и, возможно, Кил) получили статус университетов. Данди и Ньюкасл, как и университеты «красного кирпича», были признаны университетскими колледжами с момента запуска программы субсидирования в 1889 году,^[50] что сделало их последними гражданскими университетами первой волны, получившими самостоятельный статус. Кил был основан как университетский колледж, хотя (как уже упоминалось выше) имел право присуждать собственные степени. Роббинс считал его гражданским университетом второй волны.^[48] Открытый университет также является необычным учебным заведением, поскольку это единственный государственный университет Великобритании, предлагающий дистанционное обучение.

Он включен в список, поскольку получил статус университета в 1960-х годах.

Its city-centre location, architecture, and history as a nineteenth century university college make Newcastle more similar to the redbricks than the plateglass universities, and it is often referred to as redbrick or a civic university. ^{[56][57][58]}

Университеты 1980-х

После резкого увеличения числа университетов в 1960-х годах новые университеты не открывались вплоть до 1980-х. Оба университета, основанные в 1980-х годах, необычны: Букингемский университет стал первым частным университетом в Великобритании с момента создания Комитета по университетским грантам после Первой мировой войны, когда государственное финансирование было распространено на Оксфорд, Кембридж и Дарем, а Ольстерский университет был образован в результате слияния университета по производству листового стекла с политехническим институтом.

Букингемский университет	1983 ^[77]	На собственных крыльях	Основан в 1973 году как Университетский колледж в Букингеме. Первый частный университет в Великобритании и единственный, учрежденный королевской хартией
Ольстерский университет	1984 ^[78]		Образован в результате слияния Нового Ольстерского университета (основан в 1968 году) и Ольстерского политехнического института; в 2014 году был переименован в Ольстерский университет.

Университеты 1990-х годов

Принятие Закона о дальнейшем и высшем образовании 1992 года позволило всем политехническим институтам и шотландским центральному учреждениям стать университетами и присваивать собственные степени, а не степени, выдаваемые Советом по национальным академическим наградам (CNAА). Тридцать восемь университетов (включая те, которые позже объединились) сразу же приняли предложение, что почти удвоило их количество — с 46 до 84 (а к 1994 году — до 89). Хотя их часто называют «университетами, созданными после 1992 года» (или новыми университетами), многие из них ведут свою историю с XIX века.

Крэнфилдский университет и Университет Манчестера (ныне объединенный с Манчестерским университетом) получили статус университета в этот период на основании королевской хартии, а не в соответствии с положениями закона 1992 года, и обычно не считаются «новыми университетами». Они перечислены здесь вместе с университетами, получившими статус в 1992 году, чтобы отразить дату их основания.

Поскольку эти университеты были созданы с разницей в несколько дней, все университеты, созданные в 1992 году, перечислены в алфавитном порядке.

Университеты XXI века

После преобразования политехнических институтов и центральных учебных заведений в соответствии с Законом о дальнейшем и высшем образовании 1992 года наступила пауза, прежде чем в XXI веке статус университетов получили новые учебные заведения. Это были университетские колледжи и другие высшие учебные заведения, которые получили право присуждать ученые степени после 1992 года, а не в результате распада Совета по высшему образованию.

С 1999 года политика в сфере высшего образования находится в ведении местных органов власти, хотя фактическое решение о присвоении университетам статуса и выдаче дипломов остается за Тайным советом Великобритании. В 2004 году в Англии и Уэльсе (но не в Шотландии и Северной Ирландии) было отменено требование о том, чтобы учебные заведения получали право выдавать дипломы об исследовательских степенях, прежде чем они смогут получить статус университета.^[107] Однако они по-прежнему должны были иметь 4000 студентов дневной формы обучения, из которых 3000 обучались по программам получения степени. Восемь университетских колледжей, не имеющих права присуждать научные степени, стали университетами в 2005 году.^{[108][109][110][111]} В 2012 году критерий количества студентов для учебных заведений в Англии был смягчен до 1000 студентов дневной формы обучения (из них 750 обучаются на курсах повышения квалификации), а ряд университетских колледжей стали университетами.^[112] Новое руководство для Англии, выпущенное в сентябре 2015 года, заменяет требование о том, чтобы 750 студентов обучались на курсах повышения квалификации, требованием о том, чтобы 55% студентов обучались на курсах повышения квалификации.^[113]

Это также была эпоха распада федерального Университета Уэльса и аккредитации входящих в его состав колледжей как отдельных университетов, отделения Имперского колледжа от Лондонского университета и слияний ряда институтов, которые уже имели статус университетов, но были объединены в новый университет. В случае со многими из них статус университета был закреплен королевской хартией, а не положениями Закона о дальнейшем и высшем образовании 1992 года, что юридически отличает их от «новых университетов». Как и в случае с существовавшими ранее «стеклянными» и гражданскими университетами, эти новые «старые университеты» перечислены здесь как учреждения, ставшие университетами в XXI веке.

Управление по делам студентов (OfS) было создано в соответствии с Законом о высшем образовании и научных исследованиях 2017 года и в 2018 году взяло на себя ответственность за присвоение университетских званий в Англии. По состоянию на июль 2018 года с 2000 года был создан еще 51 новый университет (включая созданные путем слияния существующих университетов), в результате чего общее число достигло 132, из которых 106 (включая Открытый университет, который работает во всех четырех странах Великобритании, и 5 частных университетов) находятся в Англии,^[114] 9 в Уэльсе,^[115] 2 в Северной Ирландии,^[116] и 15 в Шотландии.^[117] Еще два новых университета были признаны в соответствии с унаследованными соглашениями в 2018 и 2019 годах до принятия пауза до 2022 года, поскольку были введены в действие новые механизмы в рамках OfS. Многие из первых организаций, получивших одобрение OfS, были входящими в состав Лондонского университета учреждениями, которые получили право самостоятельно подавать заявку на получение статуса университета в соответствии с Законом о Лондонском университете 2018 года.

Федеральные университеты

Some institutions were members of federal universities as university-level institutions before becoming universities in their own right.

Лондонский университет

Лондонский университет был создан в 1836 году как экзаменационная комиссия по присуждению ученых степеней в ответ на заявку Университетского колледжа Лондона (UCL) на получение статуса университета. Изначально в системе аффилированных учреждений было два реестра: один (контролируемый правительством) включал учреждения, которым разрешалось принимать студентов на экзамены для получения степеней в области гуманитарных наук и права, при этом в уставе были указаны только два колледжа — Университет Лондона и Королевский колледж Лондона (ККЛ),^[216] а второй (контролируемый университетом) включал учреждения, которым разрешалось принимать студентов на экзамены для получения медицинских степеней. Помимо возможности принимать студентов на экзамены в Лондоне, аффилированные колледжи не имели никакой связи с университетом.^[31]

В 1858 году от системы аффилиации отказались в отношении степеней в области гуманитарных наук и юриспруденции, и их могли получить все желающие, готовые приехать в Лондон на экзамены. В 1900 году, после периода давления со стороны Университетского колледжа Лондона и Королевского колледжа Лондона, университет был реорганизован в федерацию по образцу Университета Виктории и Уэльского университета. Степени были разделены на внешние (ранее открытые экзамены, теперь Лондонский университет \(международный\)) и внутренние (для студентов лондонских учреждений, ставших школами университета).^[31]

В 2005–2006 годах Университетский колледж Лондона, Королевский колледж Лондона, Лондонская школа экономики и Имперский колледж Лондона получили право присваивать степени от своего имени, хотя воспользовались этим правом только в 2007 году. В 2007 году Имперский колледж вышел из федерации и стал независимым университетом. С тех пор другие учебные заведения также получили право присваивать степени, а некоторые из них недавно присоединились к федеральной структуре. Закон о

Лондонском университете 2018 года позволил входящим в его состав учебным заведениям стать самостоятельными университетами, оставаясь при этом частью федерального университета. В феврале 2019 года двенадцать колледжей заявили, что подают заявки на получение статуса университета. [\[217\]](#)

Former members of federal universities

Former federal universities in Great Britain include the Victoria University, the University of Wales, the University of St Andrews, the University of Durham, and the Federal University of Surrey. In the first two cases, the federal university merged with one of its colleges when it broke up (a process still ongoing as of July 2018 for Wales) while in the other three cases, where the university had previously existed as a non-federal body, it simply reverted to that status. In Ireland the Queen's University of Ireland was succeeded by the Royal University of Ireland which was succeeded (without Belfast) by the National University of Ireland, which continued to exist after Irish independence.

The longest lived of these federal institutions was the University of Wales, which was founded by royal charter in 1893 with the federation of University College Wales (now Aberystwyth University), University College North Wales (now Bangor University) and University College South Wales and Monmouthshire (now Cardiff University). Prior to this, students at these university colleges prepared for examinations of the University of London. The university grew with the addition of further colleges, and in 1971 St David's College, Lampeter (now part of the University of Wales Trinity Saint David), Wales' oldest degree-awarding institution, suspended its own degree-awarding powers and entered the University of Wales as St David's University College.

In 2007 the university changed from a federal structure to a confederation of independent institutions, allowing individual institutions which had gained the status of universities in their own right to use the title of university, and in 2008 Aberystwyth, Bangor and Swansea Universities decided to exercise their right to award their own degrees. This led to the effective break-up of the university in 2011, with it being decided that the University of Wales would merge with the University of Wales Trinity Saint David and no longer accredit other institutions. From August 2017 the two institutions have been functionally integrated although a legal merger has not (as of July 2018) been finalised.^[253]

This table of universities that were former members of federal universities is sorted primarily by when they became part of a federal university, with date of institutional foundation as a secondary index.
